INITIAL WRITTEN QUESTION

CSO001

Question Serial No.

1316

Head: 142 – Government Secretariat : Offices of the Chief Secretary for Administration and the Financial Secretary Subhead (No. & title):

Programme: (1) Efficiency Unit

Controlling Officer: Director of Administration

Director of Bureau: Director of Administration

Question:

To help enhancing the corporate governance of subvented organisations, the Efficiency Unit has introduced the best practices outlined in the “Guide to Corporate Governance for Subvented Organisations” in May 2010 together with a checklist therein for the subvented organisations to self-assess whether suitable administrative arrangements are in place.

- (a) Please advise whether the Administration has taken follow-up actions to find out the progress of the self-assessment as mentioned above and whether the Administration has any plan to require each subvented organisation to submit and make declaration in their self-assessment checklists so that the attention of the Director of Audit can be drawn timely towards any suspicious poor-managed organisations as revealed in the submitted checklists. If not, why not?
- (b) What additional costs will be incurred for obtaining and review of the self-assessment checklists as mentioned above?

Asked by: Hon. CHAN Mo-po, Paul

Reply:

The Administration plans further seminars this year for the board members and executives of subvented organisations and for civil servants who have oversight responsibilities for these organisations.

The self-assessment checklists are intended for the consideration of the boards. The boards have the responsibility to ensure that good corporate governance policies are in place and implemented. Civil servants from the bureaux or departments responsible for the subvention are expected to monitor the boards in this respect and should take action if a board is not taking reasonable steps to address a problem that has been identified. The costs of self-assessment, if any, are absorbed by the concerned organisations.

Question:

To further improve the management of government records, will the Administration invest resources in examining the enactment of archival law this year? If yes, what are the details? If not, what are the reasons? What are the estimated expenditures?

Asked by: Hon. CHAN Tanya

Reply:

The Government attaches great importance to records management and strives to appraise and preserve government records with archival value. However, enacting an archival law is not the only way to improve the management of government and archival records. The Government has put in place administrative arrangements to facilitate the identification, transfer, and preservation of and public access to archival records. The Government Records Service (GRS) has also promulgated records management procedures and guidelines to ensure proper management of government records.

We believe that implementing a set of effective administrative arrangements on records management at present is crucial to the continuous improvement of government records management. Although we have not specifically set aside resources in 2012-13 to study the need to enact an archival law, GRS will continue to improve its services and we will keep the present administrative arrangements on records management under constant review and improve on them as necessary.

Question:

What is the expenditure incurred by the Administration Wing in handling matters regarding the Legionnaires' disease and the total volatile organic compounds measurement exceeding the prescribed threshold at the new Central Government Offices and the Legislative Council Complex? Is it still necessary to earmark provision for such matters in 2012-13? If so, what is the estimated expenditure?

Asked by: Hon. CHAN Tanya

Reply:

The Administration Wing had incurred $157,200 for installing water filters for users at the Central Government Offices (CGO) as an interim preventive measure for the Legionnaire's Disease pending cleansing and disinfection of potable water systems in CGO. It had not incurred any expenses for handling the total volatile organic compounds measurement to attain the level of the "Good Class" of the Indoor Air Quality Certification Scheme in Tamar. The Administration Wing has not earmarked provision in 2012-13 for expenses on such related matters.

Question:

What is the security expenditure of the new Government Headquarters? Is there any increase in such expenditure comparing with that of the old Central Government Offices? If yes, what is the amount of increase and what are the reasons for that?

Asked by: Hon. CHAN Tanya

Reply:

The estimated expenditure for the hire of security service for the new Government Headquarters in 2011-12 is $14,100,000 while the actual expenditure for that of the old Central Government Offices in 2010-11 was $6,395,530. The difference in expenditure is largely due to the difference in size of the two sites and the number of bureaux/main offices located thereat.

(1)

The Public Policy Research (PPR) Funding Scheme was launched by the Government in 2005 to promote public policy research in higher education institutions. The scheme is administered by the Research Grants Council (RGC) under the University Grants Committee. To support longer term public policy research projects, the Government has deployed half of the $20 million annual provision (i.e. $10 million) of PPR to launch a Strategic Public Policy Research (SPPR) Funding Scheme since 2008-09. For projects funded from 2009-10 to 2011-12, nine have been completed and 57 projects (48 under PPR and 9 under SPPR) are in progress or under planning. The total funding involved is $ 48.44 million. Summaries of the completion reports of all projects funded are available for viewing by the public and they have been uploaded on the web site of the University Grants Council.

Details of projects completed and in-progress as funded by the above-mentioned schemes are as follows -

- (d) Regarding the effectiveness of its work, GRS has met the annual targets of conducting 4 departmental records management studies and providing records management training for 2 000 departmental records managers and their assistants in the past three years. The number of government officers trained was 2 021, 2 025 and 2 093 in 2009, 2010 and 2011 respectively. The following indicators also showed the work of GRS:

Though no resources have specifically been set aside in 2012-13 to review and study the process and effectiveness of GRS' records management, and the need to enact an archival law, we keep the operation of GRS and the present administrative system of records management under constant review and will improve on them as necessary. To improve the efficiency and effectiveness of GRS' work, actions are being taken to implement as far as possible the recommendations made by the Director of Audit in his recent review.

Question:

- (a) The Government Records Service (GRS) monitors the compliance of bureaux and departments with the mandatory records management requirements. What are the details of such monitoring work in 2011? Did GRS identify any non-compliance? How many of GRS' staff are deployed for the monitoring work?
- (b) Regarding the net increase of 21 posts in 2012-13, what are the ranks and duties of these posts?

Asked by: Hon. LEONG Kah-kit, Alan

Reply:

- (a) The Government conducted a service-wide records management survey in 2010-11 mainly to assess the compliance of bureaux and departments (B/Ds) with the mandatory records management requirements. Although the results of this survey show that B/Ds were generally making progress to implement the mandatory records management requirements, we have identified and drew B/Ds' attention to the specific areas requiring improvements and expedition of actions. In addition, to better monitor the implementation of the three mandatory requirements with a deadline of April 2012, viz. adoption of the standard classification scheme for administrative records, establishment of draft disposal schedules for programme records and drawing up of an action plan to identify and protect vital records, B/Ds are required to submit quarterly reports to the Government Records Service (GRS) commencing from the second half of 2011. GRS will continue to monitor the compliance based on B/Ds' reports and take follow-up actions as appropriate. A team of three staff in GRS is responsible for monitoring B/Ds' compliance with the mandatory records management requirements as part of their duties.
- (b) The main duties and ranks of the 21 additional posts are as follows:

Question:

Regarding the Economic Analysis and Business Facilitation Unit under the Financial Secretary's Office under Head 142, please advise on the following:

- (a) Has the Government put in place any measures to monitor whether the existing business licensing mechanism and procedures are streamlined continuously in accordance with its pledge to 'remove barriers' in the business environment?
- (b) Taking the licensing of a restaurant or a retail food shop selling light refreshment (such as fish balls, sandwiches and ice-cream) as an example, how long does it take on average for the required business licences to be issued upon application?
- (c) What are the measures put forward by the Administration to speed up the licensing procedures? How effective are these measures?

Asked by: Hon. LEUNG Mei-fun, Priscilla

Reply:

- (a) Since early 2007, the Government has launched the "Be the Smart Regulator" Programme (the Programme) to further improve the efficiency, transparency and business-friendliness of Hong Kong's business licensing services. Through the concerted efforts of all participating Bureaux/Departments (B/Ds), the Government has made good progress on various fronts to reduce the business compliance costs and improve the overall licensing environment for doing business in Hong Kong. Specifically, over the past five years, the B/Ds had conducted over 40 licensing process reviews to enhance their business licensing services. In terms of the global ranking on Ease of Doing Business, Hong Kong now ranks No. 2 (2011), up 3 places from five years ago (2006). The Government has been monitoring the effectiveness of the Programme and regularly reported the progress to the Business Facilitation Advisory Committee.

- (b) In 2011, it took on average 57 working days each to issue a provisional General Restaurant Licence and a provisional Light Refreshment Restaurant Licence, and 51 working days to issue a provisional Food Factory Licence. Provisional licences will be issued to allow earlier commencement of business when the premises are installed with the necessary sanitary, food preparation and fire safety equipment, etc.. The processing period also includes the time taken by applicants to complete such installation.
- (c) The Government has implemented appropriate measures to expedite the processing of applications for business licences, including the introduction of provisional licences, wider use of IT and e-Government to support licensing work, streamlining of licensing procedure, fast-tracking application process and application tracking facility. These measures are effective and welcomed by the trade.

Question:

Please provide information on the staff establishment and the number of staff of the Government Records Service. How many of them have professional qualifications in the management of public records and what are their ranks?

Asked by: Hon. NG Margaret

Reply:

As at 1 January 2012, the Government Records Service (GRS) has an establishment of 85 and a strength of 81. Out of the 85 established posts, 22 are officer grade posts and 63 are clerical and other grade posts. To discharge its various duties effectively, GRS is now staffed by the Archivist, Curator and Executive Grades at officer level. According to the existing distribution of work, Archivists are mainly responsible for the management of archival records; Executive Officers are responsible for records management while Curator Grade staff undertake the duties of conservation and preservation of archival records. The entry qualifications for Assistant Archivist (i.e. the entry rank for the Archivist Grade) include a bachelor degree in history, political science or public administration plus two years' post-graduate research, study or training in these subjects. All Archivist Grade staff at present possess a post-graduate Diploma in Archives Administration or equivalent. The entry qualification for Assistant Curator II (i.e. the entry rank for the Curator Grade deployed on conservation work) is a bachelor degree with at least 33% of the credit units in conservation, applied chemistry / chemistry or materials science/ materials engineering. The entry qualification for Executive Officer II (i.e. the entry rank for the Executive Grade) requires a bachelor degree. To enrich their professional knowledge and expertise, GRS makes arrangements on an ongoing basis for its staff to receive training on records management and preservation and management of archival records organised by professional institutions.

Question:

There has been no review or updating of the Records Management Manual since its issuance in August 2001. Does the Government Records Service has any plan to deploy resources in 2012 to start reviewing and updating the manual? If yes, what are the details of the plan? If not, what are the reasons?

Asked by: Hon. NG Margaret

Reply:

The Government Records Service (GRS) keeps its records management procedures and guidelines under regular review to cope with changing circumstances. The Records Management Manual (RMM), which sets out good practices on a wide range of records management activities, continues to provide useful guidance to bureaux and departments to manage their records. Though we have not specifically set aside resources in 2012, as an on-going effort, GRS will continue to keep RMM and its other records management procedures and guidelines under review and improve on them where appropriate within its existing resources.

Question:

Does the Government Records Service have in place any work plan for introducing an archival law? If yes, what are the details? If not, what are the reasons?

Asked by: Hon. NG Margaret

Reply:

The Government attaches great importance to records management and strives to appraise and preserve government records with archival value. However, enacting an archival law is not the only way to improve the management of government and archival records. The Government has put in place administrative arrangements to facilitate the identification, transfer, and preservation of and public access to archival records. The Government Records Service (GRS) has also promulgated records management procedures and guidelines to ensure proper management of government records.

We believe that implementing a set of effective administrative arrangements on records management at present is crucial to the continuous improvement of government records management. As an on-going effort, the Government will continue to keep the present administrative arrangements on records management under review, including the compliance by bureaux and departments with the mandatory records management requirements, and improve on them as necessary.

Question:

What was the amount of records, in terms of linear meters, kept by the Government Record Service for processing as at 31 January 2012? How long will the Service take to finish processing these records with its existing manpower?

Asked by: Hon. NG Margaret

Reply:

As at 31 January 2012, there were 5 235 linear meters of records pending appraisal by the Government Records Service (GRS) of their archival value and 4 032 linear meters of archival records pending accessioning. Assuming that there are no new appraisal requests and no new intake of archival records, it will take about 2.9 years and 8.6 years respectively to clear these two types of backlog based on existing manpower. Nevertheless, GRS is actively exploring measures with the aim of clearing the bulk of the backlog, in addition to handling new requests, in about three years' time.

Question:

Regarding the 1823 Call Centre service, please advise:

- (a) At present, how many cases handled by the 1823 Call Centre need to be referred to other departments for follow-up?
- (b) As for the referral and follow-up service of the hotline, what is the approximate time gap before staff of other government departments contact and follow up with the customers concerned?
- (c) Due to the great increase in the number of enquiries and complaints, the call volume of the 1823 Call Centre was higher than that the staffing complement could handle. However, there is only a 2.9% increase in the 2012-13 Estimate. Is it sufficient to improve the present situation?
- (d) What were the staff wastage rates of the 1823 Call Centre in the past 3 years? What will be the increase in frontline staff for the Centre in 2012-13 to cope with the increased workload?

Asked by: Hon. PAN Pey-chyou

Reply:

- (a) In 2011, the 1823 Call Centre handled over 2.45 million enquiries. 98% were resolved at the first point of contacts. Around 40 000 enquiries that could not be resolved immediately were referred to departments. All complaints (i.e. some 300 000 cases in 2011) were referred to departments for action.
- (b) The average time for departments to respond to the cases referred to them was 6.5 days.
- (c) There was an increase of 19% in workload during 2011. This was well above the underlying trend rate of increase over the last five years. A large proportion of this increase can be attributed to the service provided by 1823 for the Scheme $6,000, which generated 268 000 enquiries, accounting for 72% of the increase in enquiries handled by 1823 during the year and 43% of the increase in workload. The introduction of minimum wage legislation gave rise to 58 000 enquiries as well, representing a 15% of the increase in enquiries and 10% of the increase in workload. By the end of 2011, enquiries on these subjects had greatly diminished and it is expected that there will be sufficient resources to meet our performance targets during 2012, taking into account the underlying trend rate of increase in workload.
- (d) The staff turnover rate of the 1823 Call Centre was 19% in 2009, 26% in 2010 and 24% in 2011. Recruitment programmes were able to more than offset the turnover, with the average strength of the Call Centre being raised by 17% over the year. The Call Centre has in place an intensive staff development and quality assurance programme to ensure the provision of quality service to the public. In 2012-13, we will continue to recruit and train call handling staff to meet service needs.

Programme: (3) CSO – Administration Wing

Controlling Officer: Director of Administration

Director of Bureau: Director of Administration

Question:

There is a substantial increase of $116.7 million (34.8%) in the total estimated expenditure of CSO-Administration Wing for 2012-13 as compared to the total estimated expenditure for 2011-12. What are the specific reasons for the substantial increase in expenditure? Regarding the net increase of 19 posts, what are the major ranks of the posts and what are the reasons for the increase of posts? What are the specific duties of the posts? How many vacancies have to be filled? What are the reasons and details of the staff changes and salary increments for staff?

Asked by: Hon. TAM Yiu-chung

Reply:

For Programme (3) CSO – Administration Wing, apart from the lower-than-expected expenditure in hire of service and professional fees in 2011-12 and anticipated increase in expenditure for general departmental expenses, the increase is also to make available the provisions required for filling 13 vacancies in 2011-12 and 2012-13, payment of salaries for 10 officers on pre-retirement leave in 2012-13 and 26 officers on temporary deployment to the Office of the Chief Executive-elect, as well as payment of annual increments to 131 eligible staff.

Breakdown down of the net increase of 19 posts under Head 142 in 2012-13 is as follows –

Question:

Were the numbers of public enquiry and using of reference service indicators set down by the department all along? Does the number of 3 200 visitors meet the Department's expectation? Is there any programme to increase the number of visitors using the reference service?

Asked by: Hon. TONG Ka-wah, Ronny

Reply:

“Number of visitors” and “number of enquiries” have been included in the Estimates since 1996-97 as indicators for the reference and research services rendered by the Government Records Service (GRS) to the public. As a result of publicity programmes digitized by GRS in recent years, the number of visitors has increased from 2 713 in 2008 to 3 155 in 2011, and the number of enquiries from 6 432 to 7 584 in the same period. Apart from visiting the Public Records Office of GRS to inspect archival records, members of the public may also access the digitized images of selected archival records through the internet. To promote the use of archival records, GRS aims to digitize in 2012 one exhibition and at least 20 seminars and visits. Some of the seminars will be co-organised with the Education Bureau to reach out to secondary school teachers with a view to encouraging teachers and students to use archival records for teaching and studying. With the planned public education and publicity programme, the number of visitors in 2012 is estimated to be 3 200. In addition, GRS will enrich the existing online resources to reach a wider audience, and digitize frequently used and popular holdings to facilitate a more convenient access to these archival holdings.

Question:

Would the Administration please inform this Committee what specific public education and publicity programmes on Hong Kong's documentary heritage were implemented last year? How much provision will be deployed for the work in the coming year?

Asked by: Hon. TONG Ka-wah, Ronny

Reply:

The Government Records Service (GRS) encourages understanding, use and protection of Hong Kong's documentary heritage through its public education and publicity programmes and reference services. In 2011, GRS digitized one thematic exhibition and 18 visits and seminars to enhance public appreciation and use of archival heritage. A new Educational Resources Portal featuring research resources, online exhibitions and highlights of GRS' archival holdings was also launched in GRS' website to promote the use of archival records and provide convenient access to digitized records. In 2012-13, provision for public education and publicity programmes and reference service is around $3 million.

Programme: (3) CSO – Administration Wing

Controlling Officer: Director of Administration

Director of Bureau: Director of Administration

Question:

One of the Administration Wing's main responsibilities is to provide support to the Business Facilitation Advisory Committee and its task forces. What are the initiatives and contents specifically? Are there any indicators to show the Administration Wing the effectiveness of the initiatives? What is the expenditure for the initiatives?

Asked by: Hon. TONG Ka-wah, Ronny

Reply:

The Government is committed to facilitating business by cutting red tape, streamlining procedures and reducing compliance costs. The Business Facilitation Advisory Committee (BFAC) and its three task forces comprising representatives from the political, business, academic and professional sectors as well as senior government officials advise the Government on regulatory reviews and measures to facilitate business. The Economic Analysis and Business Facilitation Unit (EABFU) provides support to BFAC and its task forces on regulatory reviews and coordinates the Government's business facilitation efforts.

In 2012-13, the task forces under BFAC will continue their sector-specific reviews of regulatory regimes covering the food business and related services sectors and wholesale and retail sectors. BFAC will also take forward other initiatives to facilitate business compliance and reduce compliance costs, monitor the progress of the "Be the Smart Regulator" Programme, and examine the feasibility of other business facilitation measures such as fast-tracking application process, wider application of provisional licences, certification by professionals, etc..

As part of the "Be the Smart Regulator" Programme, the Government has set up various Business Liaison Groups (BLGs). These groups meet regularly to discuss licensing and regulatory issues and provide useful feedback on the effectiveness of the Government's business facilitation measures. When compared to five years ago, the number of BLGs has increased from eight to ten.

The business facilitation measures are well received by the business community, as reflected by their active participation in BFAC and its Task Forces. The customer satisfaction surveys conducted by departments concerned are being closely monitored and the satisfactory ratings have generally improved over the years. Also, in 2011, 105 issues raised by the trades at BLG meetings have been clarified or satisfactorily resolved. In terms of the global ranking on Ease of Doing Business, Hong Kong now ranks No. 2 (2011), up 3 places from five years ago (2006).

There are 11 full-time staff in EABFU whose main duties are to support business facilitation work. A provision of up to $1.7 million is included in the 2012-13 draft Estimates for funding business facilitation consultancy studies/projects.

Question:

Regarding the 1823 Call Centre services, please provide the following information:

- (a) a breakdown of the number of staff at the 1823 Call Centre by current rank, duties, mode of employment (e.g. civil servant, non-civil service contract, agency workers) and duty time (e.g. full time or part time);
- (b) the number of frontline staff on duty to answer calls from the public during the operation hours of the Call Centre;
- (c) the reasons why the staff complement at the Call Centre is inadequate to achieve the performance target of answering 80% of calls within 12 seconds;
- (d) the manpower arrangements of the Administration for achieving the performance target in 2012-13.

Asked by: Hon. WONG Kwok-hing

Reply:

(a) As at 13 February 2012, 1823 had a total of 330 full-time and 91 part-time staff, as follows –

Terms and type of employment	Position	Main duties	Number of staff
Civil servant (full-time)	Executive Officer	Centre and knowledge management	2
	Management Services Officer		3
	Telephone Operator	Call and email handling	1
Non-civil service contract staff (full-time)	Manager	Operations management	11
	Customer Service Supervisor	Team supervision and quality assurance	26
	Manager, Supervisor, Technical Support Officer, Office Assistant	Training, technical and administrative support	24
	Customer Service Officer	Call and email handling	263
Non-civil service contract staff (part-time)	Customer Service Officer	Call and email handling	91

- (b) There are around 260 call handling staff on duty during peak hours in the daytime and around 10 call handling staff on duty at night.
- (c) In 2011, the target of answering 80% of calls within 12 seconds was not met because although there was an increase in the average staffing level during the year, there was a 14% increase in call volume and a 31% increase in emails from the public compared with the previous year.
- (d) In addition to recruiting call handling staff, the 1823 Call Centre will continue to improve knowledge management to enhance work efficiency and explore using the web to provide another way for the public to get access to the information and services provided by the Call Centre. Currently, about 160 frequently asked questions regarding 21 participating departments have been uploaded to the 1823 website. The Call Centre has also introduced a mobile application to help citizens make enquiries and lodge complaints. This application supports photo upload and mobile device's geographic positioning function, helping 1823 assign cases to departments more easily and helping departments to respond more quickly. In the coming year we will continue to pursue mechanisms that can better link service demand and funding arrangements so as to give better assurance of service quality.

Question:

Regarding the Matters Requiring Special Attention in 2012-13 under this Programme, will the Government inform this Committee of –

- (a) What are the details of the long-term financial arrangements for the 1823 service? Will additional provision be required in the coming year?
- (b) The estimate for 2011-12 for the Programme was increased by 11.8% to more than $15 million to improve the service, but why is there no improvement in the service provided? What specific improvement measures have been taken during the year?
- (c) Has the Administration explored the reasons why the service remains inefficient after implementing the improvement measures?
- (d) Although the 1823 service has yet to be improved, its expenditure only increases by 2.9% to $4.3 million. Why is this case?

Asked by: Hon. WONG Kwok-kin

Reply:

- (a) The Efficiency Unit is working to establish funding arrangements for the 1823 Call Centre that will ensure it meets public expectations for quality of service, enables the coverage of the service to be extended and keeps the service efficient and cost effective. Pending a conclusion as to whether new arrangements would be effective and in light of the significant increase made last year, additional funding has not been sought for the coming year.
- (b) The additional funding enabled 1823 to recruit additional staff and maintain the average staffing level across the year at about 17% higher than in the previous year. However, the total workload increased by 19%. For the year as a whole, although public satisfaction with the service was increased, it still fell short of the target of answering 80% of calls within 12 seconds. When the results are looked at on a month-by-month basis, performance improved significantly from the start of the year (before the increased manning levels could be put in place) to the end of the year. In December 2011, the target of responding to 80% of calls within 12 seconds was met.
- (c) The main reason for the increase in workload (and hence the shortfall in meeting performance targets across the year as a whole) was the enquiry service to support the Scheme $6,000. This generated 268 000 enquiries to 1823, accounting for 72% of the total increase in enquiries and 43% of the increase in overall workload. In addition, the introduction of minimum wage legislation gave rise to another 58 000 enquiries, representing a 15% of the increase in enquiries or 10% of the increase in overall workload.
- (d) Since enquiries for the Scheme $6,000 and minimum wage level have fallen to a low level by the end of 2011 and are unlikely to be a cause of similar interest in 2012, we expect that the resources available will be sufficient to sustain the performance levels during 2012 at the target level achieved at the end of 2011.

(iv) supporting service-wide implementation of electronic information management and electronic records management	1 Senior Executive Officer 1 Assistant Archivist
(v) monitoring the compliance of bureaux and departments (B/Ds) with the mandatory records management requirements	1 Senior Executive Officer 1 Executive Officer I
(vi) enhancing records disposal and related services for B/Ds	1 Executive Officer I 1 Clerical Officer

- (b) Of the 21 additional posts, six time-limited posts, including five Clerical Assistants and one Workman II, will assist in clearing the backlog of archival records pending accessioning and conducting prior technical assessment and preservation treatment. Another six permanent posts, including four Assistant Archivists, one Assistant Clerical Officer and one Workman II, will assist in clearing the backlog of records pending appraisal. These additional posts will enable the Government Records Service (GRS), in addition to handling new requests, to clear the bulk of the backlogs in about three years' time. These permanent posts will also assist in strengthening the management of archival records (including records appraisal, accessioning and acquisition of archival records), development of educational resources and of a regular programme to introduce selected archival holdings and new releases, digitization of archival holdings, and development and maintenance of a new information access system to facilitate public access to archival records.
- (c) The capital account item under this Programme is for the procurement of a high speed microfilm scanner, at an estimated cost of $0.7 million, to produce digital images from microfilmed records.
- (d) GRS has been working in conjunction with the Office of the Government Chief Information Officer (OGCIO) and the Efficiency Unit to formulate policy, strategies, and standards for the effective management of electronic records. The objective is to develop new records management practices and tools to assist bureaux/departments (B/Ds) in managing both electronic and non-electronic records in an integrated, efficient and consistent manner.

In line with the Government electronic information management (EIM) strategy promulgated by OGCIO in May 2011, B/Ds are required to take forward electronic records management (ERM) as an integral part of EIM and adopt an electronic recordkeeping system (ERKS) as a mandatory component to drive ERM in the Government. As the first step, B/Ds will need to formulate their organisational EIM strategies, which should include an implementation plan of an ERKS. Action is being taken to provide appropriate support to B/Ds to help them develop their organisational EIM strategies.

GRS is actively developing ERKS in the context of EIM. Specifically, it promulgated in May 2011 a set of updated ERKS functional requirements for compliance by B/Ds in developing or adopting an ERKS. GRS is currently working on other required standards and will continue to provide records management support to B/Ds to assist them in developing or adopting an ERKS progressively having regard to their individual readiness. The total estimated expenditure for 2012-13 to support service-wide implementation of EIM and ERKS is about $ 4.8 million, which includes an increased provision of $1,158,120 for the creation of two additional posts.

Question:

Under this programme, the estimated expenditure for the coming year will increase by more than $100 million or 34.8%. It is stated that this is mainly due to the filling of vacancies, staff changes and salary increments for staff. As only 300 or more staff members are involved, please provide concrete details on the filling of vacancies, staff changes and salary increments for staff.

Asked by: Hon. WONG Kwok-kin

Reply:

Part of the increase under Programme (3) is to make available the provisions required for filling 13 vacancies in 2011-12 and 2012-13, payment of salaries for 10 officers on pre-retirement leave in 2012-13 and 26 officers on temporary deployment to the Office of the Chief Executive-elect, as well as payment of annual increments to 131 eligible staff. An amount of about $14.1 million is required for these purposes.

Question:

In 2011, the target of answering 80 percent of calls within 12 seconds was not met because the staffing complement at the 1823 Call Centre was inadequate. How will the Efficiency Unit deploy resources to improve the service?

Asked by: Hon. WONG Ting-kwong

Reply:

The 1823 Call Centre will continue to recruit call handling staff. Also it will continue to improve knowledge management to enhance work efficiency and explore using the web to provide another way for the public to get access to the information and services provided by the Call Centre. Currently, about 160 frequently asked questions regarding 21 participating departments have been uploaded to the 1823 website. The Call Centre has introduced a mobile application to help citizens make enquiries and lodge complaints. This application helps the Call Centre to assign cases more quickly to departments and helps departments to respond more quickly. In the coming year we will continue to pursue mechanisms that can better link service demand and funding arrangements so as to give better assurance of service quality.

Question : After continuous catch-up works, the new Central Government Complex and the new Legislative Council Complex at Tamar gradually come into operation. However, numerous rectification works have been launched and are still underway in these two complexes. Please list the number of outstanding rectification works in each of the building of the Tamar Development Project, their current progress, expected completion dates and estimated expenditures involved.

Asked by : Hon. CHAN Tanya

Reply :

The progress of defects rectification works for the Tamar Development Project as at 21 February 2012 was as follows –

- (a) Legislative Council (LegCo) Complex – Around 72% completed;
- (b) Chief Executive's Office – Around 79% completed;
- (c) Central Government Offices – Around 89% completed; and
- (d) Tamar Park, two elevated walkways and other ancillary facilities – Around 78% completed.

The Architectural Services Department would co-ordinate closely with the contractor and the users to ensure early completion of the defects rectification works. However, to ensure that the normal operation of LegCo and the concerned Government Offices will not be adversely affected, certain works can only be carried out during non-office hours on weekdays, weekends or holidays. All the rectification works are expected to be completed by mid-2012.

As it is the contractor's responsibility to carry out the rectification works, no additional cost is anticipated.
